

Selling your house

A woman with long, straight brown hair is shown in profile, looking out a window. She is wearing a black top with a vibrant floral pattern in shades of pink, yellow, and orange. The background is a bright, slightly blurred view of a cityscape or buildings seen through a window.

“” My experience with Northwood was absolutely amazing. They made me feel very much at ease and took control of everything: I didn't need to worry about a thing. I definitely would have no hesitation in using them again.

Why Northwood?

We're committed to going over & above in everything that we do: providing an outstanding service to all of our customers. We believe in weaving this philosophy through every aspect of the Northwood service. That's what makes us different.

We know that selling a house can be stressful.

Pretty much the most stressful thing you can do, actually. So we've made it our business to take the hassle out of the experience for you.

That means that we're committed to excellent communication, right from the start. There's nothing more stressful than not being kept up to date and informed as things move along. So whether that is celebrating good news, or breaking bad news - we'll keep you up to date. We promise.

A fully customised service.

No two properties are the same (believe us - we've seen a few!) and, therefore, no two home purchases or sales are the same. We don't just have an 'off the shelf' service we offer to everyone - we recognise that every customer needs something slightly different, and that's what we provide.

It starts with listening - and understanding exactly what it is you need, right from the start. So our agents will always begin by having a chat with you to find out a little bit more about you - it just means we can offer you a service that is customised just for you. Whether it simply be understanding the best times to update you via email, telephone or face to face meetings, we can fit in around your lifestyle.

The importance of local knowledge

Every one of our managers and every member of our staff know their postcodes inside out. This level of local expertise helps us arrange more viewings, generate more offers and negotiate harder on your behalf!

They know the best bits, the up-and-coming areas, the sidestreets, the greens. They know where the good schools are, how far you are from the cinema, where the hidden gems can be found. They know the places to be seen in, the best place for a decent flat white, the best pub for a pint and a packet of crisps.

The park with the best swings, the theatre with the best shows, the bars with the comfiest seats. So you know that you're in safe hands when you trust Northwood to market your property. We know how to talk to your viewers about the local area.

“” I love visiting them in the office but I know that they are a safe pair of hands and I can just leave everything to them. I’ve tried other agents but Northwood is by far the best.

Showing your house off

When you're getting your house ready to sell, there are a few things that you can do to make it look particularly attractive to potential buyers.

First impressions really do count here. We've seen a quite a few houses in our time - so we've compiled a handy list of our top tips to help you make your house stand out from the crowd when you put it on the market.

- Tidy the front gate and gardens. Cut the grass, weed the flowerbeds and trim the hedges. It sounds like an obvious thing – but make sure the doorbell works!
- Clean the windows – they are the 'eyes' of the house. Dress them with curtains or blinds - naked windows are really unappealing.
- Make all of those minor repairs you've been meaning to get around to for ages – fix dripping taps, fill and repaint cracks, replace mouldy grouting, adjust hinges, remove or replace items that are broken or damaged.
- Open all internal doors to avoid dark passages and landings – they make a house look smaller. Turn on the lights and table lamps before your viewers arrive. Replace any lightbulbs that aren't working.
- Kitchens and bathrooms are the key rooms that sell houses. Clearing the surfaces will make the rooms appear larger. Do the washing up and put the laundry away. Clean the toilet, ensuring the lid is down.
- In winter, turn on the heating – give a feeling of cosiness in cold weather.
- In summer, fresh air is important. Open the windows – particularly if you smoke or have pets.
- Fresh flowers make a room look cheerful – and smell nice too.
- Keep the house looking spacious and comfortable to live in. Remove any clutter, make all the beds and bribe the children - whatever it takes to keep their rooms tidy!
- Define the function of each room clearly. Use your smallest bedroom as an office? Place a single bed in there instead to show how the room could be used by a young family.
- Pleasant smells attract; unpleasant smells repel. And people WILL remember smell! Get rid of the source of bad odours – ensure sheets and towels are fresh, pet bedding is washed and bins are emptied. You could use the classic technique of brewing some fresh coffee or rising bread - or if you're not much of a baker, place a few drops of vanilla essence on a baking tray in a warm oven to create a baking smell. Avoid air fresheners – they are synthetic and often overpowering.
- If you have dogs, take them out of the house – many viewers are afraid of them, however cute you may think they are!
- If you are in when the viewing is happening, give your viewers the space they need when looking around. Make them feel welcome – turn off the TV, and remember to greet them warmly.
