(Thalidomide)

Uses

Thalidomide is used in the treatment and prevention of skin inflammation in patients who have moderate to severe leprosy. It is also used with other medicines in patients who have moderate to severe nerve inflammation due to leprosy and along with dexamethasone to treat patients with multiple myeloma (cancer that forms in a type of white blood cell).

How it works

Thalidomide belongs to a class of medications called immunomodulatory agents. It treats multiple myeloma by strengthening the immune system to fight cancer cells. It is useful in leprosy by blocking the action of inflammatory substances that cause swelling and pain.

Common side effects

chills, dry skin, Lung infection, dysaesthesia, abnormal coordination, breathlessness, vomiting, tremor, abnormal sensation in the skin, decreased blood counts, depression, bronchopneumopathy, interstitial lung disease, cardiac failure, constipation, peripheral neuropathy, dizziness, sleepiness, fever, rash, decreased heart beat, blood clot in the lungs, swelling, dry mouth, blood clot in a deep vein, toxic skin eruption, confusional state, weakness

Expert advice

- Use an effective method of contraception for 4 weeks before starting treatment, during treatment, and until 4 weeks after stopping treatment.
- Before taking thalidomide inform your doctor if you have had a heart attack, have ever had a blood clotting related disorder, or if you smoke, have high blood pressure or high cholesterol levels, have existing slow heart rate (this may be symptoms of bradycardia), existing neuropathy i.e. tingling, abnormal co-ordination or pain in your hands or feet, sleepiness, a condition called Tumor Lysis Syndrome, severe infections.
- Consult a doctor if you develop allergic reaction such as rash, itching, swelling, dizziness or trouble breathing during thalidomide therapy.
- Avoid donating blood during thalidomide treatment and for 1 week after stopping treatment.
- Do not drive or operate machinery as thalidomide may cause fatigue, dizziness, somnolence and blurred vision.
- Tell your doctor if you are or planning to become pregnant or are breastfeeding.
