Pennywise weed

Buy Pennywise weed strain. Pennywise is a high-CBD indica cross between Harlequin and Jack the Ripper. A combination that lends this strain its killer clown name. Four phenotypes of this Stephen King-inspired strain exist. Some of which have finger like buds. While others appear more round. Notes of coffee and pepper lift from the purple-fringed flowers with undertones of lemon and bubblegum. Rich in the therapeutic compound CBD. Pennywise is especially effective in treating arthritis, PTSD, epilepsy, neurological disorders, and cancer symptoms. It contains a 1:1 ratio of CBD and THC, so the psychoactive effects are milder and more relaxing. Jack the Ripper's cerebrally focused effects are detectable in Pennywise's genes as euphoria and mental clarity take over with an invigorating buzz. Pennywise flowers in 60 to 67 days and is suitable for either indoor or outdoor gardens.

If you were traumatized by Stephen King's It and its killer clown villain, the name of this strain might set you off. Not to worry, though, as the CBD hybrid Pennywise is more likely to help you relax than it is to cause a panic attack. Pennywise is a mostly-indica strain created by Subcool's The Dank Seeds as a cross between landrace-derived Harlequin and TGA's own Jack the Ripper. Harlequin imparts a high CBD content, making this a soothing and therapeutic bud. Its THC content has been measured at between 12% and 15%.

When properly cured, flowers of Pennywise weed have a primarily dank, earthy scent, similar to damp soil. Closer inspection reveals some woody undertones, including some piney accents. Grinding up the buds, meanwhile, gives off more of a spicy, hashy kick. When combusted, Pennywise burns with a harsh, thick smoke and may induce a coughing fit. This smoke tastes sour and peppery on the exhale.

Effects of the Strain.

Pennywise weed takes hold relatively quickly, stimulating the smoker's mind before going to work on the body.

It may take on a new dimension or intensity. Thanks to this strain, its head high is not overly cerebral or disorienting. Instead, it allows you to focus on or to execute complicated, detail-oriented tasks. Pennywise is ideal for projects like brainstorming or crafting.

This is easily the best strain I've ever smoked, medicinally or recreationally, and I've smoked for 10 years. In terms of my conditions, I find this Pennywise weed strain eliminates my chronic nerve pain, especially the breakthrough pain, and does absolute wonders on my anxiety. The 1:1 THC:CBD content really makes it the most effective for both of my conditions. It improves my mood dramatically and leaves me with a lot more cognitive function than any other strain I've tried. It tastes absolutely great; I remarked to my partner while I was smoking it, "It tastes like herbal candy!" Great stuff, I'd recommend it to anyone who needs a good indica.

Uses.

Pennywise weed also has significant medical uses that flow from its high 1:1 ratio of THC to the more therapeutic cannabinoid CBD. High CBD strains have shown potential in alleviating the effects of PTSD, arthritis, epilepsy and various neurological disorders. These kinds of strains have also been observed to have neuroprotective properties. Pennywise's generally sedate mood can even help relieve stress and calm anxiety.

Pennywise is the strain that changed my life. It's the first cannabis I've used in four years. I stopped because I had started having anxiety attacks every time I was high. It didn't take many times for that to scare me off. I have anxiety and depression. And it's such a relief to have found. I felt nothing but positive impact on my chemicals after sipping vapor for a steady two hours.

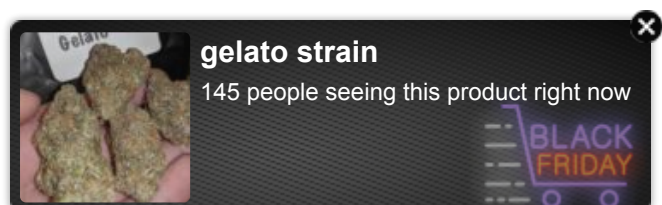

I paced myself and found that it was easy to get uplifting and relaxing effects without getting too stoned. That made it perfect for me to ease into being high again without the risk of an anxiety reaction. I did up the pace after a while, and found that it didn't have any sativa "racy" effects. It is definitely an indica in the way it mellowed me, but with the twist of being uplifting that would make it a great social strain. It isn't sedative. I'd definitely need something stronger for sleep. It's perfect for all my other needs though.

How and where to buy the Strain.

My favorite strain so far. I suffer from depression and anxiety, which quadruples with PMDD (a severe form of PMS) every month. Pennywise weed strain helps with all three. Felt very relaxed with very little head buzz. I highly recommend this strain for those who prefer the medical benefits this strain provides and still have a clear head. Therefore I recommend you order the strain from wirebudsshop. Wirebudsshop is legal and offers the best quality weed strains around the world. Place your order now and enjoy this great aroma.

Cheers, everyone needs medical marijuana.
