Rare Vintages

Lanson Vintage Champagne 1988 £200.00

A blend of 49% Chardonnay, 51% Pinot Noir.

Powerful, fruity and well structured this old vintage from Lanson highlights the stunning 88 vintage perfectly, showing great acidity from the non-malolactic in a year that was famed for its high malolactic cuvées.

This wine is evolving by the day and the complexity is really beginning to shine. This Lanson vintage really charms the senses with honey and white peach on the nose and cooked white stone fruit flavours, mellow with a good firm finish. Stunning!

Billecart-Salmon Clos Saint-Hilaire 1998 £375.00

This unique Blanc de Noirs cuvée bears the name of the patron saint of Mareuil-sur-Aÿ. This famous 99% rated village just down the road from Aÿ and home to the great House of Billecart Salmon and a one hectare vineyard which is the flagship of the Estate. Its vines, planted and pampered since 1964, have developed all the qualities of the best crus. This exceptionally pure wine stands out for the complexity of its aromas combined with a surprising freshness for such a great wine.

Moët et Chandon Vintage Magnum 1964 £450.00

The first notes have the roasted flavour of grilled pine nuts, cashews and vanilla followed by notes of honey and dried fruits. The taste is in perfect harmony with the aroma. Full-bodied strength dominates but the savours remain very balanced and well-integrated. The overall impression is of a polished creaminess. The finish remains remarkably fresh for a wine of this age and contains a distinguished hint of astringency.

Bollinger Vieilles Vignes Françoise £750.00

Blanc de Noirs 1999

This pure pinot noir wine is an absolute rarity, a testament to viticultural traditions of the XIX century. An excellent vintage cuvée with a meaty-biscuity, richness of that variety presented in an intense, evocative, very linear and defined

Dom Perignon OEnotheque 1985 £750.00

This 1985 has been disgorged in 1999 – and with a further 13 years in bottle, its colour has slowly evolved from the usual pale straw to a deep golden yellow with a fine and persistent bead disclosing its ongoing youthfulness and longevity. A rarity, a great find.

Krug Clos du Mesnil 1996 £1200.00

Krug Clos du Mesnil is the one exception to the Krug rule of blending, since it is the product, not merely of a single grape variety and a single year, but of a single historic vineyard. In this enchanting Champagne, the purity of Chardonnay and the mineral aromas of the terroir are balanced by a discreet yet distinctive taste of honey, which is a particular characteristic of Krug Clos du Mesnil.

Glossary

Non Vintage

Non vintage (NV) is a blended Champagne created from grapes harvested in a single year blended with the still reserved wine from previous years. In this way, the Champagne house can achieve a constant house style.

Vintage

Champagne derived from a single year's crop. Producers will reserve the finest fruit for this style of Champagne. Not every year is declared as a vintage year, as vintage Champagne is only made if conditions are good enough.

Multi - Vintage

In order to maintain a style that combines both complexity and freshness, the Multi-Vintage style combines the outstanding characters of several vintages.

Prestige cuvée

A cuvée de prestige is Champagne that is considered to be the top of a producer's range. Prestige cuvées represent the pinnacle of a Champagne house's achievements.

Blanc de Blancs

"White of whites" The term used to describe Champagnes made exclusively from Chardonnay grapes. Blanc de Blancs Champagnes are usually light and delicate.

Blanc de Noirs

The term "white of blacks" is used to describe Champagnes made exclusively from black grapes. Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier or a blend of the two are the only red grapes permitted in Champagne.

Rosé

Rosé Champagne can be produced by either maceration of black grapes during pressing, so that the colour leeches out from the skins or by adding a small amount of red wine to give the wine a rosé tint.

Brut natural

A very dry style of Champagne in which the sugar content is less than 3 grams per litre. This is a very rare style of Champagne that is not widely available.

Brut

The majority of Champagne falls into this category. Brut is a term to describe dry Champagne. Contains less than 12 grams of sugar per litre.

Extra Dry

A slightly confusing French term to signify that the Champagne is slightly sweeter in style, more middle-of-the-road style, not as Dry as brut.

Sec

A term to signify that the Champagne is medium sweet.

Demi - Sec

A term to signify that the Champagne is a sweeter style with 30 -50 grams of residual sugar.

Cramant

Cramant is a commune located in the Côtes des Blancs sub region of Champagne and the wines are classified as 100% Grand cru.
