WORLDSCAPES

FINE ART PHOTOGRAPHY BY SERGE CHRIQUI

The bulk of my photographs were shot primarily on 35mm slide film; some were shot on 35mm print film. My most recent works were shot digitally with a Nikon D90 DSLR. In the early days of digital photography, I, like most other photographers wanted to experiment with the new technology. First it was with a 3.1 MP Canon digital camera, then with a 5.1 MP Nikon. I made the mistake in a few instances of not duplicating some shots into the traditional analog manner. The only records I have of some of those photographs are those original digital files which don't lend themselves well to enlarging. A number of those photographs are presented here and are not available as larger formats.

For the slide and print film captures, all images were high-resolution scanned with a Nikon CoolScan 9000 scanner. Please be aware that you will see grain in the final product.

You will notice that most of the work presented is in Black & White. A number of my most popular offerings have been from the Colour-Isolated series. There are a few selections offered in Sepia Tone. Should you find imagery that interests you and would like the option to view it in Full Colour or Sepia Tone, please just ask...

All images offered were edited by me and are printed at a professional photographic lab with whom I have a long-standing relationship.

- Please note the discrepancy between Image Size and Paper Size - all prints are shipped with a minimum 1/2" white border around the entire image.
