

We take the time to learn about your needs and provide a written estimate of the time and costs involved in your case. We also accept some work on a contingency fee basis, depending on your financial situation and the legal issues involved. We value results rather than rhetoric and we are prepared to zealously defend your interests in and out of court.