Answering your questions.

Why is my bill higher than the monthly charge I signed up for?

If this is your first bill it is made up of 2 charges:

- The first charge covers your costs for the first 4-9 days of joining so you can start using Three straightaway.
- The second is the first full monthly charge plus any Add-ons or subscriptions.

For all other bills:

This could be because you've subscribed to a new service or if you've gone over your monthly allowance. For more details go to

Three.co.uk/priceguide

About your allowance's unit costs.

Your plan includes a set of allowances, made up of a number of 'units'. A unit entitles you to either one minute of calls, one text or one megabyte of data. Your Units may be used as agreed in your Contract with us. To help you understand the value you're getting from your plan, below you'll see a breakdown of the exact cost of the units included within your allowances this month.

This bill period, your unit costs are: 0.196p per minute, 0.017p per text and 0.021p per megabyte.

These aren't charges for going over your allowance, these units are included in your plan. They also don't include any one-off reductions, discounts or any Add-On's allowance that you may have purchased. If any of your allowances are all-you-can-eat, for the purposes of this section we treat them as being either 3000 minutes, 5000 texts or 25GB of data, so that we can determine a unit cost. To see unit costs for short-term Add-on allowances, visit

Three.co.uk/addonunitcost, or see our Price Guide at Three.co.uk/priceguide.

I don't understand my bill?

When does my monthly allowance restart?

Your monthly allowance starts again every bill date, which you'll see on your bill. You can check your allowance, what's left and when it runs out at your My3 account.
